

SHOT HIMSELF THROUGH HEAD

Erbin Hutchins, Tired of Life, Attempts Suicide---Very Little Hopes of Recovery.

Erbin S. Hutchins, aged 17, of Kittery Point, attempted suicide on Monday afternoon, by shooting himself through the head with a revolver at the home of a friend at New Castle.

Hutchins, who has been out of work, has been despondent and Saturday night he called at the old Boatswain Allen house at New Castle, occupied by Mrs. Collins, and was allowed to remain there until Monday. He was about the place Monday forenoon, but shortly after two o'clock, when the people were out of the house, he took a thirty-two calibre revolver and fired a shot into his head, the bullet penetrating at a point at the front and above the right ear.

His first attempt to shoot himself was a failure, as a subsequent examination of the revolver showed that the first cartridge failed to explode, but this did not unnerve Hutchins, who tried again and this time the cartridge exploded.

Dr. F. S. Towle of this city was called and he found Hutchins alive, and conscious on his arrival, and after dressing the wound ordered him to the Cottage hospital, the ambulance from Fort Constitution being used. At the Cottage hospital an operation was performed by Dr. Towle, Eastman and Walker, but they were unable to find the bullet, which was in the brain.

Hutchins, before the operation, became unconscious, and he did not recover, and this afternoon he is still in that condition and the attending physicians have little hope for his recovery.

Hutchins was a member of the first company, N. H. coast artillery, of this city, and was liked by the officers and other members of the company.

SENATOR HALE WILL RETIRE

Is Senior Member of the United States Senate

Portland, Me., April 19.—An unconfirmed, but very generally credited report that Senator Hale is to retire from the senate at the end of his present term, was the signal for an informal conference on the part of friends of ex-Gov. Cobb Monday, and he will, unless he absolutely declines to have his name used in connection, be at once brought forward as a candidate for senator against Judge Powers of Houlton, and it is believed that he will be a candidate if Senator Hale retires.

The retirement of Senator Hale will not, it is understood, make any change in the contest in the 1st congressional district, and Col. Frederick Hale, a son of Senator Hale, will remain a candidate. Ex-Gov. Cobb has for some time been urged to enter the field for the senatorial succession, but declined to do so and continued to support Senator Hale.

Confirmed from Washington

Boston, April 19.—The Herald today publishes a dispatch signed by its Washington correspondent, Mr. Ernest G. Walker, of which the following is the substance:

Washington, April 18.—Senator Eugene Hale of Maine will retire from public life next March at the close of his present six years' term. He will withdraw from the contest for reelection now vigorously in progress. An announcement to that effect will be made within a few days, probably Wednesday.

This news comes as a political sensation in Washington. It follows immediately after announcement that Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island will also retire next March and refuses to continue his canvass in Rhode Island for another term. They are the two most prominent Republicans in the senate and hold the two positions of greatest power in that body.

Sensor Hale's failing health and his unwillingness at his advanced age of 74 years to participate in a fierce opposition campaign constitute the reasons for his decision. He would gladly have accepted a seventh term in the senate if it could have come to him with Republican unanimity. But he feels that further service could bring him no additional honors, and prefers to devote the remaining years of his life to more restful pursuits.

"Some men tell me I will find myself very lonesome out of the senate," said Senator Hale to a friend here a few days ago. "They do not know me. I have many resources for occupying myself. There are a half dozen things I would like to do."

Things I would enjoy doing. Then why should I remain here and fight for the interests of my state and my party when activities of that character bring so much censure?"

At the time the senator spoke these words he did not indicate that he would let go. He added that it was difficult to disregard the urgent requests of friends who had stood valiantly by him for 30 years, and indicated that he would not.

The decision of Senator Aldrich, with whom Senator Hale has been closely associated in public life undoubtedly had great weight with him. It had been known here for several days before anything appeared in the newspapers that Senator Aldrich had made up his mind. He told a few friends before he left for Providence last week that he would not serve another term. It was his intention, however, to postpone the formal announcement until today.

Until a few days ago, however Senator Hale has been actively conducting his campaign for reelection. Only recently ex-Gov. John F. Hill of Augusta, chairman of the Republican national committee, was in town for a conference over the situation. He reported that, here was little doubt of Senator Hale's reelection, providing the next Maine legislature was Republican. At the same time he told of a fierce factional fight within the party and of danger that it would lose the Republicans many seats in the legislature.

Senator Hale also conferred here a few days ago with Col. F. H. Parkhurst of Bangor, an influential Republican of eastern Maine, and plans were outlined for continuing the campaign in that section of the state. There were indications that the opposition had been checked. Today, however, after contemplating the action of Senator Aldrich, Senator Hale wrote a letter to Byron Boyd of Augusta, chairman of the Republican state committee, announcing his withdrawal. That letter is expected to reach Mr. Boyd tomorrow afternoon.

The retirement of Senator Hale will mark the disappearance from public life of practically the last of the great delegation of six men from Maine, who made that state a leader in congressional influence for many years. Senator Frye alone will be left, but, he, too, is in feeble health.

Michael Moran Was Found Dead

Anniversary of Knights of Pythias

First Schooner of the Season Has Arrived

The Academy principal Takes a Trip to California

Exeter, April 19.—Michael Moran, aged 52 years, started out Sunday morning early. He took the woods in the vicinity of the overhead bridge on the Newmarket road. A search party started out for him at four o'clock Monday afternoon, composed of Timothy O'Leary, his half brother; Frank Peavey, Lewis Conner and Officer Beverly McLaughery. The body was found late Monday night, not far from where he entered the woods, lying in a clump of woods on a hill. It seems that he was returning home, as his basket was nearly full and he was headed toward the road. It was not far from the McDuff residence on the Newfield road. Dr. J. G. W. Knowlton, deputy medical referee, was called and pronounced death due to natural causes. He probably died suddenly on Sunday. Moran is survived by his wife.

The Swamscott lodge, Knights of Pythias held a fortieth anniversary night at their lodge rooms Monday evening, and the guests, which were many, were very hospitably entertained. The attraction was an entertainment by Fred B. Kendall, humorist of Boston. The evening was spent in playing progressive whist, and at the conclusion a banquet was served. The guests included many from the Damon Temple of Pythian Sisters. The committee of arrangements consisted of Messrs. Frank D. Vickery, Fred W. Sanborn, Willie S. Day, John D. Cheney and Thomas Carter.

The first schooner of the season, the Ada J. Campbell, arrived at high tide Monday with a cargo of 240 tons of coal from Perth Amboy, N. J. She left that port on April 2, and was sixteen days on the trip. A severe storm was encountered when off the Connecticut coast. Otherwise the voyage was an uneventful one, and favorable weather prevailed. The schooner is captained by John Sullivan.

A young poultry mistress is little Helen Kelleher, the nine year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kelleher, as she recently received a gift of a dozen hens of choice variety from a friend in Portsmouth. The birds are for the farm which has recently been purchased by her parents on the Brentwood road, and came as a complete surprise to her. She considers them a good foundation for more, and intends to do a thriving business with the "biddies."

The regular meeting of the academy trustees was held on Monday in Boston, and the business transacted was of nothing of general interest, the regular routine being in order. Plans for an erection of a library were considered, and it will soon be considered more fully. Principal R. P. Amen leaves tonight for a trip to the Pacific coast, principally San Francisco, for a four weeks' stay.

Edwin C. Connor, well known here and for a period a resident, where he was engaged in tutoring, passed the state teachers' examination at Concord last week.

The Renaissance club met Monday evening in Dr. Leacock's recitation room at the academy. The subject was "Greek Ceramics, the Greek Vase Paintings," the paper being by Dr. Leacock.

The high school boys are making arrangements for the continuation of the baseball season by the raising of funds by a lecture by A. L. Davis of Ashland, the well known landscape photographer, who is to deliver his lecture on Wednesday evening at the town hall. The subject is "Thougl Lake and Mountain Region of New Hampshire." It is illustrated by 125 views, all taken on the tops of mountains or hills in the state.

The petit jurors drawn from Newmarket to serve at the April term of court which sits today are: George W. Pendergast and Arthur N. Dearborn, and John Hevey as grand juror.

Frank N. French, a clerk of this city for many years, has accepted a position at the insurance office of John W. Jewell, general agent for the Massachusetts Life Insurance company.

The building of the proposed state road from Dover Point to this city was formally begun today, when a large crew of men and teams was put to work in that suburb. It is expected that at least five miles of the proposed road will be built this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith Caswell of Stratford Bow Lake, where they have lived nearly all their lives, have purchased the Ephraim Deland estate on Central avenue, this city, where they are to make their home. Their large farm at Stratford, containing nearly 200 acres of valuable timber land, they have sold to Mr. Blanchard, a lumber operator of Concord.

Mrs. Margaret Berry, widow of Samuel Berry, is dead at her home, 61 St. Thomas street, aged 86 years. She was a native of Dover, but spent a part of her life in Stratford. She leaves two daughters, Miss Amanda Berry and Mrs. Nettie Dismore, both of this city and a son, John E. Berry of Brockton, Mass.

Mrs. William C. Pierce, organist at St. John's M. E. church during the past ten years, has resigned and Laurel A. Deede has been chosen as her successor. Mrs. Pierce is to leave here soon for Haverstraw, N. Y., where she will join her husband, who recently accepted a mill position at that place under Agent Charles H. Fish, formerly agent of the Cocheco mills of this city.

John W. Tuttle, a prominent resident of Stratford where he has held a number of town offices sustained a paralytic shock and is reported as being in a critical condition.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the New Hampshire Genealogical society will be held in this city Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

At a meeting of the police commission Monday William H. Tibbets, one of the oldest officers on the force, and once prominent in the state militia was removed from office and former alderman and special officer, Charles A. Hammond, was appointed as his successor.

The body of Myra Dueland, who died at the state hospital at Concord on Friday evening, was brought to this city on Saturday. Funeral services were held this afternoon at her former home on Oak street.

The death of John P. Trainor occurred on Saturday morning at his home on Waldron street.

The news of the appointment of Raymond G. Brown of this city, to the position of assistant United States attorney for the southern district of New York, was very gratifying to the young man's many admirers here. Young Brown has successfully passed through the academic course at Harvard and is nearly graduated from the Harvard law school handicapped by the absence of sight. His progress has been rapid, notwithstanding. He will take the oath of office at once, it is stated, but will not assume its duties until after his graduation from the law school.

Dover men fared well in the roundup of offices at the state gathering of the Royal Arcanum at Manchester last week. The offices of grand regent, grand secretary, grand chaplain and chairman of the executive committee came to Dover.

STATE COLLEGE

The one-week course in agriculture, which the New Hampshire state college is again offering this year to the farmers in the state, began here on Monday afternoon with a large number in attendance.

In spite of the inclement weather, a number of farmers with their wives arrived on the morning trains from all parts of the state. The hours, between 10 and 12 o'clock were devoted to registration, the assignment of rooms and the obtaining of hearing places for the new arrivals.

After the registration had been finished by the early morning arrivals they were shown around the college and inspected the buildings.

The course was formally open in the afternoon by a lecture and demonstration by Prof. F. W. Taylor in the Agronomy class room at Morrill hall on "The Home Mixing of Fertilizer and the Treatment of Oats for Smut."

AN UP-TO-DATE STOVE

Do you realize there is no longer any reason why you should use a coal range? Oil is cheaper than coal; it is lighter and easier to handle, and gives an intense heat. Provided you have the right stove, oil is more economical, cleaner and less trouble. Have you seen the

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

The accompanying illustration gives you only a rough idea of its appearance. You really can't appreciate it until you either use it yourself, or talk to someone who has used it. It does everything that a coal range will do—except heat the room. The New Perfection Oil Cook-stove will do anything from heating a little of water to cooking a course dinner, but it won't heat a room. It doesn't "smell," it doesn't smoke. It can't get out of order. Light it and it is ready. Turn it down and it is out. Only a woman who knows the trouble of carrying coal and cooking in a hot kitchen can appreciate what it means to have a clean, perfect stove that will cook anything, boil, bake or roast, and yet won't heat the kitchen. How is it done? The flame is controlled in turquoise-blue enamel chimneys, and directed against the bottom of pot, pan, kettle or oven, and only there. The flame operates exactly where it is needed—and nowhere else. With this stove your kitchen is cool.

The nickel finish with the bright blue of the chimneys makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

WHITE MOUNTAIN FOREST RESERVE

Washington, April 19.—The bill creating the Southern Appalachian White Mountain forest reserve was favorably reported on Monday from the committee on agriculture in the House.

The purpose of the bill is to preserve water sheds by conservation of trees and reforestation where necessary.

The bill is designed to conserve navigable rivers, but the first application contemplated is to the forest reserves mentioned. The majority of the committee says:

"The agricultural, industrial and commercial feature of the sections of the country to which it is most immediately directed" is involved in the bill.

The report declares there is no more important bill before congress and that the almost unanimous sentiment of progressive citizens demand a favorable action, and that it is the first step in the direction of the great movement for the conservation of national resources.

The minority report, signed by Chairman Scott and six other members, declares that Congress has little warrant for entering upon a policy "which must, if followed to the extent advocated by its proponents, involve the expenditure of vast sums of money and entail a permanent heavy cost upon the Treasury."

The minority contends that the deforestation or reforestation of a watershed at the source of navigable rivers is a negligible factor in the maintenance of navigability.

ANOTHER FIRE AT SALISBURY BEACH

Two Cottages Were Destroyed This Morning

Newburyport, April 19.—Two cottages were burned to the ground in a fire that for a time threatened another conflagration at Salisbury beach early this morning. That the north end of the beach was not fire swept was due to the hard work of a hundred or more seafarers at the beach, who turned out and with buckets of water and sand confined the fire to the cottage where the blaze started and the one adjoining. The cottages burned are the Dorsey and Dewey situated across the track from the Salisbury House and owned by Dorsey of Amesbury.

The first started about two o'clock in the Dorsey cottage. It was occupied at the time by James Moon and "Judge" Lynch, who were unable to account for the fire.

The fire call brought out all the people at the shore who at once started in to prevent the flames from spreading.

A call for help was telephoned to Salisbury but no conveyance could at once be found and as the fire was under control by three o'clock, no further attempt was made to send any apparatus over.

D. J. Kelleher of this city, who had received word of the fire, hurried to the scene with a team and in passing through Salisbury took some chemicals aboard which did good service when he reached the fire.

The Emerson cottage nearby was badly scorched by the heat from the flames but not otherwise injured.

Great excitement prevailed at the start, but the volunteers soon got the upper hand of the flames and by 3 o'clock, the fire was practically out. The wind was light which prevented the flames from spreading. The loss to the buildings will be in the neighborhood of $1500.

HONORED BY CONGRESS

Washington, April 18.—Capt. Woith 3. Ross, commandant, has been notified of the death of Senior Capt. Walter S. Howland, retired, of the revenue cutter service, at New Bedford, Mass. He had been ill two months. Capt. Howland was sixty-seven years of age.

Capt. Howland was born and educated in New Bedford, and enlisted in the navy during the civil war from that town, and was shortly afterward promoted for bravery to be an ensign. At the close of the war he resigned to enter the revenue cutter service. His integrity and faithfulness to duty won the honorable mention of his superior officers. His title as senior captain was conferred on him by act of congress.

As an officer of the revenue cutter service Capt. Howland was stationed for a number of years in the south, having been at different periods at Baltimore and places along the Atlantic coast. For several years he was connected with the life-saving service on the coast of New Jersey, where he received special commendation from the department. He was retired three years ago last Christmas when he attained the age of sixty-four years. He leaves a wife and four children.

SHORE DINNERS HIGHER

Advance of Ten Cents Made by Proprietors of Resorts

Providence, April 19.—Shore dinners are to be higher this season than ever before. This is the decision of the proprietors of the large shore resorts along Narragansett bay, and all on account of the advances that have been made in the price of feed stuffs of all kinds.

This season those who eat shore dinners will find that there is an additional cost of ten cents per plate for the traditional Rhode Island summer feast. That is 60 cents for the former half-dollar dinner and 85 cents for the 75-cent 5 o'clock hakes.

A short time ago the proprietors and enterers of the several shore places held a meeting at which the situation was thoroughly discussed, and it was decided that it was necessary to make an advance per plate of at least ten cents.

When Cooking is a Pleasure.

When you can go into the kitchen, light the gas and in five minutes have everything cooking, then it's a pleasure to cook. No dirt, smoke or soot; no coal, gas or oil at the burner, which is practically no radiation of heat, so it's no bother.

To tell the truth, lady, we think any woman is foolish to wait over a hot cook stove. And if you don't know how little it costs to do all your work with gas, we don't believe you'd put up with it another day. Why not come in and let us tell you about it.

Portsmouth Gas Co.

GOOD MORNING! HAVE YOU SEEN HALLEY'S COMET?

3 o'clock A. M. is such an inconvenient hour. Most people have gotten in before that hour. It's too early for the rest to get up. It's not too early to order coal, for the price in April is the lowest of the year.

ALDRICH WILL LEAVE SENATE

Positive Declaration Is Made
by General Brayton

POOR HEALTH IS THE REASON

Public Hostility and Opposition to His Pet Monetary Measure Are Contributory Reasons—Rhode Island Man
Long Recognized as Authority on Laws of Trade and History of Financial Legislation.

Providence, April 19.—Belief in the debility of Senator Nelson W.
Aldrich's purpose to retire from the United States senate at the close of his present term was materially strengthened when General Charles R. Brayton, national committeeman from, and political dictator of Rhode Island, declared positively that Senator Aldrich would not seek a re-election to congress.

That the senator would not consent
to a nomination to succeed himself was Brayton's authoritative announcement.
The reason assigned was that his health was in such a doubtful condition that he could not devote his time and energy to affairs of state with such assiduity as a continuance in office would demand, but public hostility and the fact that the monetary measure upon which Aldrich set his heart is not likely to pass the senate
are contributory reasons.

It was urged against the selection of Aldrich for United States senator in 1881 that he was entirely too young for the honor or the duties of the office. Nevertheless he was elected to it by a flattering majority. His influence in the senate was felt immediately. It was that of a shrewd, level-headed man of business, endowed with a love for mathematics, rare
knowledge of mankind, great energy
and talent for organization and leadership. Such traits soon put him to the fore in the upper house.

On matters having to do with economies Aldrich has from the start
taken a prominent part in the senate.
He made himself a student of the tariff, the laws of trade and the history of financial legislation. His natural bent and abilities placed him high in the councils of the Republican party leaders, of which he has long been counted one of the shrewdest and most quietly forceful. He never hunts with a brass band, and one can almost say he never sleeps when there is anything to be accomplished.

Before going to the senate he had experience in his state legislature,
where he served as speaker in 1875,
and as representative in congress, to which he was elected in 1879. His first political fight came two years
later, when he essayed to defeat several strong men who coveted the place of the late General Burnside. He won with ease that was more apparent than real. His leadership of the party in the senate was early acknowledged.
In fact it has been charged that he had more power in that respect than
the president himself.

But not all of his attention is centered on politics. He is regarded as a hard-working legislator, most attentive to his committee duties, of which he has a heavy share. He is not only chairman of the committee on finance, but is also a member of the committees on corporations of the District of Columbia, Cuban relations,
industrial exhibitions, interstate commerce and rules, the meetings of which he faithfully attends.

HALE TO QUIT SENATE

Will Leave Public Life Because of

Bangor, Me., April 19.—Rumors
that Eugene Hale of Ellsworth, junior senator in congress, would withdraw from the canvass now in progress here
re-election, have been current here
since Saturday, and have created a sensation in political circles. Information has reached Bangor that Senator Hale will within a day or two formally announce his withdrawal on account of illness.

Already speculation is rife as to other candidates for Hale's seat, and among those mentioned are former Governor William T. Cobb, H. C.
Burleigh, representative in congress
for the Third district; H. M. Heath,
a lawyer of Augusta; former Governor Cleaves, G. H. Murchie, Governor Curran and former Governor Hill.

Clemens' Condition Still Serious
Bedding, Conn., April 19.—Samuel L. Clemens is said to be resting very comfortably and feeling quite bright.
It is understood that while Clemens
has improved since his arrival here
his condition is still serious.

Killed in Electric Chair
Albany, N. Y., April 19.—Karl H.
Hill, 21 years old, convicted of the murder of Edwidge Davis, a prosperous farmer of Bainbridge, was put to death in one minute in the electric chair in Albany prison.

For White Mountain Reservation
Washington, April 19.—The bill creating the southern Appalachian and White Mountain forest reserve was favorably reported.

CRIME WITHOUT REASON

Demented Man Kills His Employer
and Takes His Own Life

Boston, April 19.—While temporarily deranged, Edward Bishop, 65
years old, shot and killed his employer, George Sommer, 43 years old,
at the latter's home in Dorchester. He then turned the revolver on himself
and committed suicide.
It is thought that Bishop, a lodger
in the house, became insane and decided to end his life. He entered the bath room, only to meet Sommer
there. His mind, it is believed, then turned to murder, and without a moment's warning Bishop placed the gun
at the head of his friend and fired.
Sommer died instantly.

The murdered man leaves a wife
and five children, none of whom are over 10 years of age. The murderer was regarded as eccentric and had worked for Sommer off and on and lived with the family. He was an assistant in Sommer's furnace and stove store.

ENVOY WITH OLIVE BRANCH

Seeks to Calm Warring Chinese Factions in the United States

New York, April 19.—In an effort to establish peace among the warring factions of tongs in the United States,
the Chinese minister, Chang Yu
Tang, has commissioned Wu Chang,
first attaché of the legation at Washington, to visit this city. This is the first time in the history of the tong troubles that such a step has been taken to bring about harmony.

Wu Chang has been sent out by the minister, clothed with full power to act as mediator, to settle, if possible,
a problem that has baffled all past attempts of this sort.

According to dispatches from Washington Wu Chang's mission will require courage, tact and skill, and even with the utmost of these employed may come to naught.

BAY STATE IS NO PLACE FOR SHEEP

Dogs Are Blamed For Loss of Once Flourishing Industry

Boston, April 19.—Massachusetts was once a sheep-raising state, but has lost this industry. Figures are being compiled in the office of the secretary of the state board of agriculture, J. L. Ellsworth, and they indicate that in a few years the whole flock will die. In 1850 there were 188,650 sheep in the state, and the number has decreased nearly every year so that today there are only about 26,000.

Dogs are said to be the cause of this decrease. They chase the sheep and frighten them so that the owners
find it profitless to attempt to raise
any. It is suggested that the industry, which is naturally profitable, will never thrive again in Massachusetts
till a law is passed which will restrain the dogs.

No such legislation has been asked for in recent years, partly because of the great sympathy for dogs that was displayed when attempts were made to have them restrained temporarily
on account of hydrophobia. The farmers do not expect that they would be able to meet that sympathy and opposition successfully in the legislature.

TWENTY WITNESSES CALLED

Grand Jury Takes Up Alleged Poisoning by Drinking Whiskey

Westerly, R. I., April 19.—The first definite step to investigate into the mystery of the thirteen sudden
deaths in this and surrounding towns,
within the last fortnight, believed to have been caused by drinking poisoned
whiskey, was taken when twenty witnesses went to Kingston to appear before the grand jury in a secret session to tell what they know concerning the alcoholic poisoning cases.

Included in this number of witnesses are several ministers who from their pulpits have denounced the illegal liquor traffic in this vicinity.

CARTER LOSES AGAIN

Supreme Court Takes Fortune of $400,000 Away From Captain

Washington, April 19.—Dismissed
from the army and put into the penitentiary for his alleged connection with the fraud on the government in the improvement of the harbor of Savannah, Ga., former Captain Omerin
M. Carter had a $400,000 fortune swept out of his hands yesterday as a further outcome of that transaction.

This was the outcome of a decree
by the supreme court of the United States.

Drop In Price of Hogs
Chicago, April 19.—Live hogs
dropped 75 cents a hundred yesterday. At the close prime hogs were offered at $9.10 to $9.20, with no
takers, 11,000 hogs being held over out of a total offering of 36,000 for the day. The close shows a price of $2 a hundred lower than the highest figure for March.

natives have been plotting and have destroyed the property of foreign missionaries, is that all is quiet.

PRESIDENT'S ONE-TERM JOKE

It Is Being Discussed by Politicians in Washington

HE IS NOT LOOKING AHEAD

Nothing to Indicate That He Does Not Want Renomination—Letting Matter
of Second Term Take Care of Itself—Devoting His Time to Present Administration, Unmindful of Much
Sharp Criticism

Washington, April 19.—President
Taft's jesting reference, at the local bankers' dinner Saturday evening, to the length of his own presidential term should not be construed as indicating that he is attempting to set a bound to his own tenure of office.

Addressing the bankers, the president incidentally remarked that he was "going to spend three years more here." He was interrupted with shouts of "seven years more, you mean," and while he did not offer
further comment he smiled and let his intimation that one term in the White House was enough for his stand.
From this incident the politicians are discussing the mental attitude of the president toward a renomination and debating among themselves whether he wants one or not.

To his callers at the White House,
President Taft has made many references to the second term and always in the same vein. Men with whom he has talked recall how emphatically he has said, on repeated occasions: "I cannot look ahead beyond the next three years and I am not trying to."

In the connection in which these words have been spoken, they invariably have been taken to mean that the president would not allow himself to be swayed from the execution of the policies to which he is committed by any considerations of temporary popularity. He has announced his policies with frankness and has bent all his energies to putting them through. In accordance with the pledges the Republican party made in its last national platform.

Whether the country wants all these promises fulfilled or whether it is pleased with the president's method
of securing legislation, he believes that his course is a proper one and his own self-respect will not permit him
to deviate from it because some features of his administration are criticized. In other words, the president is letting the matter of a second term take care of itself. No word has come from him capable of a broader interpretation than this.

Only one quarter of the president's term has passed and Mr. Taft is laying the experience of most new presidents in meeting with sharp criticism. Much of it springs from the popular discontent over high prices,
for which he is not responsible, and some of it is based on actual misunderstanding of facts.

The older political heads are inclined to discount heavily the present
attitude of the people, which they regard as only temporary, and to believe that sooner or later the Republican party will come together with a rush in support of the president, even though a Democratic congress may intervene meantime. Amid all this storm President Taft is quietly pursuing his own line of duty as he sees
it, and trusting in time and a better understanding of his acts and motives
to do him justice.

TO MEET THIS WEEK

Customs Court Will Have Many Important Suits to Consider

Washington, April 19.—The new customs court of appeals will hold its first meeting for organization in Washington on April 21 at the quarters of the Spanish treaty claims commission, where the justices are now installed. It is said by members of the court that organization will be effected within a day or two after the preliminary meeting, when the court
will be ready for business.

Customs lawyers have awaited anxiously the announcement of this meeting, as many suits are withheld from the circuit and district courts pending the organization of the new tribunal.

TOLD ONE LIE, ANYWAY

Cook Did Not Ascend Mt. McKinley,
According to Lloyd Party

Washington, April 19.—Governor
Clark of Alaska, who is in this city, received a telegram from E. W. Griffin at Fairbanks, Alaska, declaring the proofs of the ascent of Mt. Mc-Kinley by Thomas Lloyd and party on April 4 were absolute, and that these proofs show the "absolute failure of Cook's party."

The message concludes: "Hail to Alaskans."

Mrs. Taft's New Secretary

Washington, April 19.—Miss Katherine Lettermann, a clerk in the diplomatic bureau of the state department,
was selected to serve as social secretary to Mrs. Taft. Miss Lettermann succeeds Miss Splers, who resigned
after two weeks' service at the White House.

HOPEFUL FOR DEMOCRATS

Too Early to Discuss Issues of Next
Campaign, Says Bryan

New York, April 19.—William J.
Bryan returned from his tour of South America, optimistic over the chance of Democratic victory at the next presidential election.

"The chances for the Democratic victory are always good," he said in discussing the political situation. "I see a most delightful opportunity for Democrats to elect enough congressmen to control the next house of representatives and possibly the senate."
"Will you be a candidate at the next presidential election?" he was asked.

"I have said all on that subject that I care to say," was his reply. He was reminded by his interviewers that that was the first time the subject had been brought up, but he refused to make any further statement. "It is too early yet," he said, "to discuss the issues of the next campaign."

DENIAL OF BRIBERY

Big Stir in Bay State Senate Over
Charges of Boston Minister

Boston, April 19.—The charges made by Rev. Herbert S. Johnson that senators had been improperly approached to oppose the bar and bottle
bill made a big stir at the state
house.

There were suggestions that Johnson be called before the bar of the senate. It was said that President Treadway, after a conference with a number of his political friends in the senate, expressed willingness to go ahead with an investigation upon the submission of tangible evidence.

But Senator Evans of Everett did not encourage the investigation.
Evans is one of the foremost leaders
in behalf of the bill and said that he did not care to make any statement on the matter. He thought an investigation would only help the Democratic party.

CAR STRIKE LOSS PUT AT $12,200,000

Business Community Appears to Have Suffered the Greatest

Philadelphia, April 19.—Four thousand carmen, who have been on strike
for two months, will return to work
tomorrow under the terms of an order issued by officials of the union.
Revised estimates made of the aggregate cost of the strike place it at $12,200,000. The burden fell on the business community, which is estimated to have suffered in the loss
of trade and in other ways to the extent of $8,000,000.

The cost to the strikers, including those who went out on sympathetic strike, was $3,000,000, while the direct loss to the rapid transit company
is figured at not less than $1,200,000.

SAYS SHE WAS JILTED

Woman Who "Played Pretty Game
and Lost" Sues For $21,000

New York, April 19.—Her failure to carry out an alleged agreement to provide a home for her occupancy, and pay her $100 a month for life in settlement of a $100,000 breach of promise
suit, is made the basis of an action
by Miss Blanche B. Freeman of Philadelphia against Clifford B. Harmon, a wealthy real estate operator.
She asks $21,000 damages.

Miss Freeman says Harmon jilted
her to wed a daughter of E. C. Benedict, banker and yachtman, and testified when she called on him to carry out his agreement he told her:
"You have played a pretty game and lost."

NO DOCTOR SUMMONED

Boy Who Was Denied Medical Atten-
dence Dies From Scarlet Fever

Stamford, Conn., April 19.—Ed-
Jordan, 10 years old, son of a real estate man of this city, died of scarlet fever after an illness of two weeks.
The child's parents, it is said, refused to give him medical attendance because such attendance was opposed to the religious belief of the mother.

Health Officer Biggs states that he and Dr. Rowell visited the Jordan home
a week ago and diagnosed the case as one of scarlet fever and fumigated the house. Dr. Biggs says he will call the attention of the coroner to the death.

Death of Long-Term Pastor

Quincy, Mass., April 19.—Rev.
William B. Heath, 77 years old, noted as New England's "long-term" pastor,
in the Methodist church, died at his home at Braintree, after a short illness. He had fifty-five years of service.

Roosevelts to Be Guests of King

changed as to permit him to spend

The Roosevelts will be the personal guests of King Frederick.

New York, April 19.—The most interesting wedding of the year in New York, from a social standpoint, took place this afternoon in St. Bartholomew's church when Miss Marjorie Gould and Anthony J. Drexel were married.

The interest is largely due to the beauty and charm of Miss Gould and to the fact that she was the first debutante in the Gould family since Anna Gould, the youngest daughter of the late Jay Gould and now the Duchess de Talleyrand-Perigord
made her bow to society many years ago. Also the alliance of the victorious railroad-building Gould family
with the ancient, exclusive Drexel family of Philadelphia, both typifying different developments in American social life, counts for something.

ANTHONY J. DREXEL, JR.

The crowds at the church
larger than at any wedding for years.
Everybody of social importance and wealth was invited to the church. The reception before the wedding and the reception following were more exclusive.

All of the decorations for the wedding in pink. At the luncheon which Miss Gould gave to her bridesmaids at her father's home everything was in pink.

The bridesmaids, six of the prettiest
girls in New York society, wore frocks of pink chiffon over pale blue satin and high blue straw boques
trimmed with pink tulle and a pink leather.

At the luncheon Miss Gould presented gifts to her bridesmaids that were the most expensive ever given by a bride in New York. They were tiny chateaufort watches, each incased in a ball of diamonds. They were especially designed and made by Tiffany.

Miss Gould's bridal robe was very simple. It was of white satin, trimmed with rare old lace.

The presents at this wedding are said to surpass any ever given in New York. George Gould gave his daughter a house worth, it is said, $500,- 000. He also gave her a diamond necklace of Oriental design with stones of graduated size.

LEITER COAL MINES SOLD

Former Owner Said to Have Lost
$2,000,000 in Fighting Unions

Chicago, April 19.—Control of the Leiter coal mines at Ziegler has passed into the hands of the Bell-Ziegler company and hereafter will be operated by union men.

The experience of Joseph Leiter in trying to operate coal mines in Illinois with non-union men is said to have cost him about $2,000,000.
Nearly a hundred men have met death
in a series of mine disasters, explosions and fires in the Ziegler properties.

For more than a year the mines
have been sealed up and the bodies of the last eight men who were killed
have not been recovered.

The town of Ziegler, which was owned by Leiter, has been deserted
since last May, when the inhabitants,
all of whom depended on the operation of the mines, were sent to other towns.

RIP IN HER HOLD

Passengers on the Minnehaha Are All Safely Transferred

Hugh Town, St. Mary's, Seilly Islands, April 19.—The sixty-five passengers from the Atlantic Transport liner Minnehaha, which struck on Bishop's Rock at 2 a. m. Monday, were transferred yesterday afternoon from Bryher, where they were first landed, to St. Mary's Island.

This morning they boarded a steamer which will take them to Penzance.
Although the weather is fairly moderate the Minnehaha humps heavily on the rocks and water continues to pour rapidly through a bad rip in her hold.

The Minnehaha sailed from New York on April 9 for London. She is a cargo carrier of 12,443 tons, with accommodations for cabin passengers
only.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF RUTH WHEELER

Trial of Albert Woller Is Begun
in New York Court

New York, April 19.—Within less than a month after the discovery of the crime, the trial of Albert Woller, 18 years old, charged with the murder of Ruth Wheeler, a 15-year-old stenographer, was called in general sessions court here.

On March 24 the girl called at the apartment occupied by Woller, to whom she had been referred to by a typewriting school when Woller, applied to it for a stenographer. Two days later her dismembered and partially burned body was found in a gunnysack on a fire escape outside Woller's apartments and examination showed that an attempt to burn the body in a fireplace in Woller's room
had been made.

Woller had already been placed under arrest, charged with the girl's abduction, and on the discovery of the body he was charged with murder
and speedily indicted for the crime.

ROOSEVELT'S BUSY DAY

Lunches With Archduke, Goes Sightseeing and Pays Visit to Kossuth

Buda Pest, April 19.—A heavy rain storm did not prevent Mr. Roosevelt from disposing of an exceedingly strenuous program Monday.

This included a luncheon at the royal palace as a guest of Archduke
Joseph, a reception at the parliament
house and a sightseeing tour.
A portion of the afternoon was taken up with a call upon Francis Kossuth, leader of the united opposition, who is ill. Kossuth told the ex-president that in his early life, which he spent in exile, he was taught to revere America, where his father found welcome and refuge. They talked chiefly of the material development of Hungary since Roosevelt was here
forty years ago.

RIOT FOLLOWS STRIKE

Thousand Workmen Walk Out Because Four Are Discharged

Pittsburg, April 19.—One thousand employees in the erecting department
of the Pressed Steel Car company, Schoenerville, struck, and in a near riot
which followed, one man was shot in the left arm and Captain Smith of the company's police was badly beaten.

The trouble is reported to have started over the discharge of four workmen. The "disorder" came very suddenly when the car company officials refused to restate the discharged men. More trouble is anticipated.

Crops Helped by Snow

La Porte, Ind., April 19.—Expert
fruit growers declare that the heavy snow which fell in northern Indiana
and southern Michigan instead of killing the fruit crop, as reported,
was of great value to the fruit growers and the winter wheat.

THE WASTE OF TIMBER

The United States Department of agriculture in connection with a study of the wood-using industries of various states is learning what part of the rough lumber output of our American sawmills passed through a second process of manufacture before it is ready for the consumer. The study is regarded as having an important bearing on the extent to which more economical use of our forest resources can be brought about. So far, the results obtained show that more than five-eighths of the rough lumber sawed is to be counted as raw material for other industries which convert it into a more highly finished and more valuable product.

In the United States, waste in the woods, the mill and the factory is so great that two-thirds of what was in the tree is lost on the way to the consumer. The heaviest part of this loss takes place in the sawmills. Much of this mill waste is unavoidable under present conditions, but the greater the demand for the product and the higher its value, the better will economy pay. Waste in manufacture is very small compared with that at the sawmill. Study of the demands of the wood-using industries may be a means of finding out how the mill may profitably market a part of what now goes to the burner in sawdust, slabs and trimmings.

An important item of waste in the woods is the trimmings which are never marketed. Within a week, the writer has seen in the woods in a town adjoining Portsmouth, the slashings where a pine lot was stripped. To a person unacquainted with figures on fuel it seemed as if the lot contained broken limbs enough to kindle many thousands of fires in coal stoves or to supply a brick yard or two with kiln-wood for a season. That had been abandoned to feed a forest fire or to choke the development of a new stand of timber. Much of it would have made good pall handles or other small wooden articles.

If the United States Agricultural department can secure the utilization of the timber waste, it will mean so much less first class lumber to be used, and partly relieve the drain on the forests.

BIRDSEYE VIEWS

The end of the Shaker communistic experiment is apparently foreshadowed by a receivership for the main body in Union Village, near Lebanon, O. This colony is the bishopric of all Shaker communities west of the Allegheny mountains. It has had a precarious though interesting existence for more than a century. Year by year the Shaker population grows less. In the second quarter of the past century the sect claimed a membership exceeding 5000. In 1874 there were 2415, and according to the census of 1890 it was only 1728. It is hardly probable that there are fewer than 500 communicant Shakers in the United States at the present time.

In so far as there is definite news, the agricultural situation in Europe at the end of the first month of Spring is of better than usual promise. High prices and a generally favorable seed-time last autumn were influences which almost everywhere tended to increase areas of winter wheat; although statistics of the actual acreage laid down to this cereal in several countries are still lacking, the known increase in states of South-central and Southwestern Europe—notably Roumania and Austria-Hungary—gives rise to confidence that the total continental wheat area is somewhat larger than last year.

Reports from correspondents and agents of the bureau of statistics of the United States department of agriculture indicate that the general condition in regard to healthfulness of farm animals on April 1 was very nearly the average; horses and sheep were slightly lower in condition than a year ago and than their ten year average condition on April 1, cattle were slightly lower than a year ago, but above the average, and swine were above both a year ago and the ten year average.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Blaine's Tariff Prediction
Is Mr. Blaine's prediction in his "Twenty Years of Congress," that the time would come when the great food producing states would turn to free trade, while the South, having become a manufacturing section, would demand protection, coming true? Congressman McKinley of California, just from a trip through the Middle West, sees fulfillment as very near. Such a development would go far to explain the attitude and votes of the two sections to the last tariff bill.—Boston Record.

About Mt. McKinley
There has been a melancholy absence of pro-Cook talk since the Alaskan ascent of Mount McKinley. Even Governor Brown of Georgia has not been heard from, though there must surely be points which that doughty lover of fair play could seize upon for the benefit of the persecuted Brooklynite. Or instance, the height given by the Alaskans is 20,400 feet, and Dr. Cook in his book, "To the Top of the Continent," states the height as 20,390; how are you going to account for this wonderful agreement? If Cook never was at the top? On the other hand, if the descriptions or photographs of the Alaskans differ from those of Dr. Cook, what reason is there for supposing that his were fraudulent rather than theirs? Don't desert a man when he is down, Governor; if we don't hear from you on the subject, we shall begin to lose our faith in human nature. But there is one thing upon which we are awaiting with some curiosity the full report of the Alaskans themselves: Did they see the Pacific ocean from the top? Cook tells us of his seeing "the point of Kenai peninsula, and beyond, the broad sweep of the Pacific two hundred and fifty miles away;" but the map makes the distance more than 250 miles, and, were it not for the atmospheric refraction, the ocean would not be visible from a mountain 20,400 feet high at any distance beyond 175 miles.—New York Post.

Governor Patterson's Pardons
The rigor of the penal statutes, perhaps, puts more persons behind the bars in Tennessee than would happen in many states. Undoubtedly many of the Patterson pardons can be defended as humane and having due regard to the public welfare. But with an apparent maximum prison population ordinarily of about twenty-five hundred the release of more than thirty per cent within one administration manifestly requires considerable explanation if it is to be justified to public policy.—Providence Journal.

Paying for the Roads
Malne men who are interested in good roads will watch closely for the outcome of Mayor Fitzgerald's efforts to make Massachusetts automobilists pay in part for the damage they do to the roads in parks, or speed elsewhere. A bill is pending before the Massachusetts legislature which provides that a portion of the automobile fees shall be applied to parkways and roads in the Metropolitan district. That bill is pending but has not passed and there is a reasonable doubt that it will pass. Mayor Fitzgerald has not waited to learn the fate of the bill, but has informed the public that he will, use his influence to have the automobiles barred from the roads under the control of the Metropolitan Park Commission and the Boston Park Commission. When the Metropolitan Park roads were first built many of them were closed to automobile traffic in the interests of safety of those who were to drive thereon for pleasure. It is deemed wise by the commissioners to close them for that purpose at that time it may be deemed equally good judgment to close them at present.

There is no doubt that careless driving of automobiles has worked havoc with some of the finest roadways in the state and at the present time there is no way of making those

of Disease

TYPHOID is more typhoid fever in this country than in any other civilized land. The annual total is 35,000 deaths and over 350,000 cases. This is a national disgrace and is due entirely to lack of education on the subject. We probably know more about typhoid and its method of spread and the means of its control than we do of any other disease. Yet right here in our capital city there is an excessive amount of typhoid and this sad story finds repetition in all our large cities. If the public were taught to fear typhoid as it does a case of cholera there would soon be an end of it.

There are two important factors in public health work. One is the gaining of new knowledge through scientific research; the other is the diffusion of this knowledge through education. With prophetic foresight and characteristic energy, Harvard University has established a chair of preventive medicine as an integral part of its integral system.

Not only the medical profession, but the public at large should be enlightened. The scientific and professional corps may be the regular army, but the public must be the reserve militia in any effective warfare against disease.

When the people understand that typhoid fever is as preventable as are railroad accidents we shall have a casus belli, and the courage needed for a victorious campaign. The government now protects us from cholera, leprosy, yellow fever and other exotic plagues; why should it not also guard us against the dangers that are present as well as those that are but remotely imminent? Present dangers such as tuberculosis, pneumonia, typhoid fever and infantile diarrhoea, are infections which reap the highest toll of death among us and are foes more worthy of our best efforts.

When this matter is better understood the state will be required to protect its citizens against preventable diseases and the officials appointed to safeguard will be held responsible just as the law now holds employers liable for preventable accidents. Organizations like life insurance companies with their legions of doctors, armies of agents and hosts of patrons, could lend an effective and useful hand in this worthy warfare against disease.

PEOPLES' OPINIONS

Old Home Week
Editor of Portsmouth Herald:
If we had to wait for rain until everybody was ready the whole world would perish from thirst. The way to have an Old Home Week is to have it. No matter how it is started or by whom, it has gone too far to be stopped. It is time now to throw away all doubts as to whether or not the celebration will be held. The sons and daughters of Portsmouth are coming from far and near and it is up to us to meet them at the gate and give them the glad hand. And why not? The idea is good. Hospitality and good will have always been reckoned among the virtues; not among the vices. We want to see our children in the old home once again. We want to see how much they have grown. We want to make them feel that they are not forgotten and that they are always welcome to the scenes of their childhood. We want to renew old acquaintances and form new ones. Sentiment? Of course it is mighty good sentiment, too. What would life be without any sentiment? Nothing but a "demolition grind" as Dickens says. But it will cost something. Of course it will cost something, but what of it. There is no need of bankrupting ourselves. If everybody will chip in a little there will be enough and nobody need hurt himself. Everybody expects to spend something on the Fourth of July and what better can we do than to spend it for music and a general good time. We sleep enough in Portsmouth. Let us wake up once in a while or at least turn over in bed. The mayor is right. We want no unlimited liability in the city treasury. Spend what has been appropriated and no more. Let the citizens do the rest. We can do it and not half try.

Now a few suggestions as to a programme. Sunday forenoon a union meeting in the largest church will be a good beginning. In the afternoon let those who have motor or sailboats take parties down the river. The Navigation company might tow barges around the fleet which we can have ordered here. Owners of autos can give rides in the suburbs. Trolley parties to the beaches, walks and calls upon friends, etc. In the evening have literary exercises at Music Hall with plenty of short open air reception by the mayor with address of welcome. About eleven o'clock a grand parade. After the parade furnish a box lunch for the soldiers and sailors but no general free banquet. On a large scale they are troublesome, costly and always unsatisfactory. Our sons and daughters will not want a banquet furnished to them free. Let the club houses, restaurants and lunch counters, furnish food for those who are not entertained at the houses of relatives or friends. Visitors from the country

Electric Sign advertising is no longer an experiment. The most successful firms of world-wide reputation, as well as the stores with whom we have done business give us facts that prove the advertising worth of Electric Signs to be far in excess of any method of advertising that has ever been devised for the amount expended.

Look for the most enterprising city of today and you will find one that uses Electric Signs on all available locations and where merchants appreciate the advertising value and use light. I am making and selling the best signs that can be produced, not the cheapest, but signs that will stand up and give service for years. Recent inventions have reduced the cost and also the cost of maintaining. Public spirit and civic pride demand well lighted business sections in our cities, why not do your part with a well lighted, artistic Electric Sign and increase your business as well.

I charge nothing for estimates or sketches and am always willing to explain details and serve your interests. Respectfully yours.

TWO LOCOMOTIVES IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

A regular freight, No. 854, and a light engine, No. 119, came together at Milton on the Conway branch of the Boston and Maine railroad, on Monday afternoon, and both locomotives were badly wrecked.

It is said the accident was due to some misunderstanding relative to the rights of the light engine and though the engineers could see the other's engine, they were unable to stop before the crash, owing to the conditions of the rail.

Engineer Ed. Horne of the freight was cut and scalded about the face, head and hands, and also injured about the legs.

Engineer Leighton of the extra locomotive suffered less injury than did Horne, but was cut quite badly on the head, hands and face.

The wrecking crew from Rochester was called and worked for several hours to clear the tracks. The main line train service was off the schedule for several hours.

A TRIBUTE TO JAMES RINDGE STANWOOD

In chronicling the death of James Rindge Stanwood we do not linger upon the many personal traits of character by which his nearest and best friends were drawn to his companionship. Of late these friends were comparatively few, for his retiring disposition and almost entire removal from the business world left him very much to himself and his own large world of research and varied information. Nor do we place much emphasis upon his title of "Colonel" from his very honorable position on the staff of the Division Commander of the Union Veterans Union. These friends, and the brethren of the U. V. U. need no word of commendation here. Where he was well known he met with kindly favor and esteem. He was always ready, with such means as were at his command, to aid and advise where occasion offered. To the public generally he has of late years been mostly the quiet, unassuming gentleman whose familiar figure on the street received but a passing though respectful notice.

It is in quite another line of characteristics that this tribute is made to his memory. In some respects his death is a great public loss. He had become an acknowledged authority upon questions of antiquity, heraldry, genealogy, local and universal history, and all other matters of that ilk.

Explanatory of this sketch the writer would say that his long connection with the publication of the Portsmouth Journal gave him an unusual opportunity to know of Mr. Stanwood and those matters that are here presented.

When a young man, Mr. Stanwood was very popular in his set in society, as some of those who are now matrons and men of the world may well remember. He was a young gentleman of talent and social accomplishments, of one of the best families of Portsmouth, but his tastes were at ways literary—delving into research and solid information. This is probably the principal reason of his bachelor life. It led him into frequent visits to the newspaper office, where his contributions were always thankfully received. He wrote not for gain but for pleasure, and always to the point upon some practical and worthy theme. His handwriting was of a good hand, his manuscript being almost like a printed sheet with carefully forped roman letters, which he wrote with ease and ordinary rapidity. He was particular to a dot to have everything perfectly correct, and the compositors had to look well to their copy and proofs.

Several times he made long series of weekly contributions upon matters current. At the time of the war between Russia and Turkey, in 1876-7, Mr. Stanwood began in September, 1876, a series of articles, of a column each, upon the various phases of that war and its relation to European affairs, giving the Journal a desirable historical reputation. They ended in July, 1877, with the treaty of Berlin. Able and carefully written, they were afterwards complimented by officers of the Russian navy.

Another painstaking and elaborate series was contributed to the Journal by Mr. Stanwood, entitled "The Disputed Boundary," giving a very complete and accurate history of the fixing of the boundary line between Massachusetts and New Hampshire. This comprised twenty weekly articles running from Aug. 29, 1885, to Jan. 9, 1886. When Prof. Quimby of New Hampshire and the Massachusetts commissions subsequently made the new and final division line they sent for a copy of Mr. Stanwood's correspondence. It was a production such as few could, and hardly any would, prepare, and was a great credit to his ability and research.

These were but a part of the newspaper work of Mr. Stanwood. At one time in the absence of the proper person he kindly assumed the task of furnishing the entire editorial matter for the Journal, and it was thoroughly done.

Mr. Stanwood's repute in heraldry went up to Concord, N. H., where in 1895 the board of officers of the New Hampshire Society of the Colonial Dames of America commissioned him to prepare a seal for that society. He entered zealously into the work, laboring diligently for some weeks, and the result was highly pleasing to the society. The original drawing of it hangs prominently in the stairway hall of his late residence. It is handsome and is the adopted seal of the society.

His principal literary work was a genealogical history of the Wendell family, his mother being a daughter of Jacob Wendell, Esq., of Portsmouth. This covered the family history on both sides of the Atlantic and was eminently a complete and valuable work, involving great labor and pains.

The work in which he probably took the greatest pride outside of his literary labors, was the renovation to its original shape and style, of the "Old State House" in Boston. Some twenty years ago this work was undertaken by the Bostonian Society, of which Mr. Stanwood was (the writer thinks) the secretary. At any rate, the work was put almost altogether into his hands and he devoted himself to it. It was done with all the care characteristic of the man, in every detail, and to the utmost satisfaction of the society and of the people of Boston. The visitor in that city will, if at all inclined to antique curiosity, find in the rooms of the Old State House at the head of State street, a very interesting half day's inspection. The rooms are free and are under the supervision of those who have them in charge. The remodeling included the outside and inside, the roof and the entire building, and it was made as nearly as possible into its original shape. It will stand as a lasting monument to our friend, for it will probably remain as it is for all time, accidents excepted.

There are in Portsmouth a number of societies and associations that particularly commended themselves to the attention of Mr. Stanwood. Among them are The Paul Jones club of Sons of the Revolution; the Pepperrell Family Association, and Ranger Section No. 17 of the Navy League. In all of these Mr. Oliver L. Frisbee is a prominent participant; he himself being an authority on incidents and dates pertaining to them. He speaks with much fervor of the generous and kindly assistance he always received from Mr. Stanwood, and of the marvelous amount of information that he could readily supply.

Naturally the principal local interests of Mr. Stanwood centered in the Portsmouth Athenaeum, where he spent a large portion of his time among the books and archives of its large and valuable library. He took a lively interest in its prosperity. It was almost like a home to him—indeed quite so—his literary abiding place, where we often found him reading and studying. Some years ago he was instrumental in procuring the two old cannon which, with their inscriptions, are placed near the entrance to the building and attract the attention of visitors. His absence will be felt by the usual visitors at the Athenaeum quite as much as at any other place.

All this forms a portion of the life work of our highly esteemed fellow citizen. What are the social regrets at his departure are in the sacred precincts of personal fellowship, and there we will leave them, while we offer this slight tribute to his memory.

ABANDONED BABY

Harvard College the Recipient of a Lusty Little Girl

Cambridge, April 19.—The Cambridge police are today in possession of a bouncing two weeks old baby that was found abandoned in the doorway of Prescott Hall on the "Gold Coast" of Harvard college.

The crying of the infant was the first intimation of its presence on the door steps, and when the students of Prescott Hall did not pay her the slightest attention she "bawled them out" in true babish fashion.

She was finally taken to the station house, where she received a more cordial reception. The little one was poorly clad and with no identification marks on her clothes.

SHAW HAS WITHDRAWN HIS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

His Wife Has Amended Her Charges and Case Will Be Heard Wednesday.

Hon. James Fullerton Shaw has withdrawn his suit for absolute divorce from his wife, Mrs. Nettie Elredge Shaw of this city, and Mrs. Shaw withdrew a part of her allegations in her cross libel for divorce and will sue for a divorce on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment.

The above information is from a very reliable source and is correct, although the dispatches in the Boston papers from Salem infer that Mr. Shaw will continue his suit and get a divorce.

The case has attracted a great amount of attention in Massachusetts owing to the prominence of the Shaws, was called at the supreme court in Salem on Monday, and the court room was crowded.

Mr. Shaw had brought suit for absolute divorce and the custody of the child on statutory grounds naming Gilbert Lee, formerly of Brookline and H. Keno Marble, a chauffeur, as the respondents, and Mrs. Shaw brought a counter suit in which she names several prominent society women and alleged actions in New York and Boston hotels and seaside resorts.

In defense of her own case the chief of police in the town in California in which the charges with Marble were alleged, is an important witness and he is due in Boston today, and it is said will tell an entirely different story from that published from California at the time of the discovery of Mrs. Shaw in that state.

At the session of court Monday, Mrs. Shaw's counsel amended their libel by adding the charge of cruel and abusive treatment, and it is said that this is the real charge in which the case will be heard. The case has been continued until Wednesday.

Mr. Shaw, it is understood, has withdrawn his charges against Mrs. Shaw, and will allow her to get a divorce, on the condition that the original charges in which the names of prominent society people of Boston were brought into the case, were withdrawn and the charge of cruel and abusive treatment substituted.

This is a distinct victory for Mrs. Shaw, who all along has maintained to her friends that at the proper time she would clear herself of the charges made against her in California.

According to unofficial advices in Washington, Saxe has been ordered shipped back to the United States as a prisoner on board the army transport Logan. This would indicate that a trial had been held and that Saxe was to be sent back to the United States to serve his term. The war department refuses to divulge whether there has been a trial. Alcatraz prison, near San Francisco, is said to be the destination of Saxe.

Waterbury, Conn., April 19.—Private Joseph Saxe, arrested in the Philippines, is the son of John Saxe, commander of the local G. A. R. post. He has been ten years in the army.

Saxe has been held in close confinement since his arrest, incommunicado. Now word comes to his family here that he was taken secretly to Mariveles and there placed aboard the Logan. His father declares he shall have the best counsel money can procure. The father has made several trips to Washington since his son's arrest, but refuses to tell what information he gained from the department officials. He has been ordered to keep his mouth closed, he says.

A friend of the family asserted, however, that the Government had reason to suspect wholesale selling of war department information in the far East, and that the father of Saxe had been informed that his son's best hope lay in telling all he knew about it. A cablegram to Major John D. Porter, Judge Advocate General of the Department of Luzon, who has the papers in the case, brought only the response that Saxe was not charged with "trafficking with the Germans." That was the first anybody here had heard that he was suspected of dealings with the Kaiser's emissaries.

One Philippine soldier has written home that in army circles it is believed Saxe knows just what Japan is trying to do in the Philippines, what information Japan already possesses, what information she hopes to possess and the men who are engaged in the business of supplying it. There is a rumor that their number is large.

For two seasons past James T. Powers has been amusing large audiences at the Casino theatre, New York, in the London musical success "Havana." Mr. Powers in "Havana" with the original cast and production will come to this city for an engagement of one night at the Music Hall theatre, April 23.

That "Havana" has been a genuine success is evident enough in the fact of its long stay in New York and the reports which have come from playgoers who have seen it during that time.

The American stage has no more accomplished comedian than James T. Powers, in fact he is almost alone in the field. He is fitted for it by his build and his voice and practice has developed these comical possibilities to the utmost. In "Havana" Mr. Powers plays the part of a sailor man and with such irresistible comedy that he keeps the audience in gales of laughter during the entire time he is on the stage. The sailor man is named Nix. Seven years prior to the opening of the play he visited Havana and wedded a fair Cuban girl whom he does not remember for he was taken aboard his vessel by his mates and not allowed to return. In fear and trembling he comes on the scene afraid every moment that his wife will get him. This aloofness leads some revolutionists to suppose that he is one of them and he is dragged into their councils. A police raid leads to his arrest as the leader of the movement and he is led out to the slaughter and only saved by the timely arrival of his wife who declares him legally dead as he has been absent seven years and so they may not shoot him. Thus all ends happily. As the sad little sailor man Mr. Powers is said to have the best part of his whole career.

The Messrs. Shubert, whose direction Mr. Powers is appearing have staged "Havana" magnificently and have surrounded their star with a splendid company numbering about one hundred players. The original cast will be seen here and besides includes Edith Decker, Ernest Lambert, Percy Ames, Harold Vizard, Suzanne Willis, Joseph Phillips, Charles Prince, William Phillips, Julie Mills, Ernest Hare, Geraldine Malone, Marie Sarratoris, Donald Archer and others. There is a big chorus of typical Casino beauties who are exquisitely gowned.

Musically "Havana" is said to be well above the average musical play. The score was composed by Leslie Stuart and one of the numbers in particular, "Hello, People, People, Hello," sung by an octette of little girls, has made a tremendous hit. There are some twenty musical numbers in all and they are praised for their melodious quality. The original book of "Havana" was written by George Grossmith, Jr., and Graham Hill, but it was revised for America by Mr. Powers. The lyrics are by Adrian Ross and George Arthurs. The piece was staged by Ned Wayburn. From this distance "Havana" looks like a sure winner.

Washington, April 19.—The war department maintains silence regarding the disposition of the case of Joseph Saxe, the army private accused of selling or offering to sell photographs of the fortifications now building on Corregidor, El Fraile and other islands in the month of the Bay of Manila to two Japanese officers.

MILK MAY COST MORE IN BOSTON

Notice Given by Cooperative Milk Producers' Company

Boston, April 18.—The housewife who for months has been waiting for the drop of one or two cents in the retail price of milk, customary in the summer months, will this summer meet with disappointment.

The Boston Co-operative Milk Producers' company, composed of farmers and milk producers, not only in Massachusetts, but in all the surrounding states, and controlling directly the milk supply of this city, has sent to its members a circular asking that each producer stand to a demand for the market price of milk that has ruled during the winter.

The reasons given are that owing to droughts, pasturage is exceedingly poor this spring, as it was last summer, and that nothing remains for the producer to do but to feed his cattle during the summer months. After a winter of hardship, an officer of the company explains, the producer cannot afford to lower his price to the wholesale buyer, and that therefore the price must be sustained.

According to those who are familiar with the situation, it is the opening note in what promises to be a struggle between the producer and the middleman for profits, which must come from the consumer. Further predictions forecast that the move means the price of milk for the coming winter will, from this reason alone, soar from one to two cents a quart over what it has been for the past winter.

The Boston Co-operative Milk Producers' company, is one of the strongest organizations in the state, controlling a staple article of diet, and the order issued recently to the producers will formulate the policy of thousands of milk producers, in all places where Boston is the ultimate market.

In the terms of the circular itself, the present situation in the milk supply of Boston is "a crisis," and the producers are called upon to take a firm stand to sustain their prices with a threat that they will withhold the supply otherwise.

Among the branches of the Milk Producers' company is one at Portsmouth, N. H.

The Messrs. Shubert, whose direction Mr. Powers is appearing have staged "Havana" magnificently and have surrounded their star with a splendid company numbering about one hundred players. The original cast will be seen here and besides includes Edith Decker, Ernest Lambert, Percy Ames, Harold Vizard, Suzanne Willis, Joseph Phillips, Charles Prince, William Phillips, Julie Mills, Ernest Hare, Geraldine Malone, Marie Sarratoris, Donald Archer and others. Theatrical Topics

Footlight Flashes
William Vaughan, who is with David Belasco's Girl of the Golden West company, will close his engagement about May 15.

The latest plan to make money for the coming Actors' fund fair is a song writers' contest, inaugurated by Miss Blanche Ring. She offers a prize of $100 for the best now song submitted. As Miss Ring anticipates a deluge of songs she will first select 12 to be sung at the miniature theatre at the fair. The public will then choose which is the winner.

Low Fields has just placed George Moore and Harry Elsher, the two principal comedians of "The Midnight Sons," under contract for three years. Coincidence with this the Shuberts announce the continuance of "The Midnight Sons" for next season. A preliminary route for the production is now being laid out.

The engagement of the French tenor, Lucien Muratore, is believed to indicate the absence next season of Charles Delmores, who will not be able to sing for Mr. Hammerstein unless he reaches some settlement of his troubles with the Metropolitan opera company, which is determined to carry out the action it succeeded in winning against him to its furthest extent.

Despite the Kaiser's reported amazement on learning that Engelbert Humperdinck's "King's Children" was to have its first performance in New York and the negotiations subsequently begun to secure the premier privilege for the Berlin Royal opera, it is now announced that the first performance of the work in Germany, following, according to the original plans, the premier at the Metropolitan, will take place at the Vienna court opera under Weglerner's direction. Humperdinck now feels confident of having the novelty completed by the beginning of next season.

Flora Zabelle has been offered the prima donna role in George M. Cohan's new musical play in which he will open the new George M. Cohan theatre. She prefers, however, to remain in the same company as her husband, Raymond Hitchcock.

It is probable that Wilton Lackaye will be seen next season in the character of Dr. Benjamin Franklin. Earle Brown, who plays the part of Red Joclyn, a yegg, in "Alas Jimmy Valentine," has written an unnamed play dealing with the intrigues of the French court during the peace negotiations following the American revolution. The play employs a pretty little episode for which there is abundant historical authority, a love affair of one of Mr. Franklin's household which almost nullified the efforts of Franklin, Jay and Adams in their great work of securing a satisfactory peace.

Fritz Scheff has spent many of her summers in Europe at the conclusion of her tours with her opera company, but this year will prove an exception and she will remain on this side of the Atlantic.

Charles F. Browne, manager of The Man Who Owns Broadway company, will remain in Boston this summer as manager of a local amusement park.

Fanny Addison Pitt, that fine old actress, who is now with Viola Allen in "The White Sister," has played no less than 636 parts since beginning her stage career. She says that her favorite part is Mrs. Malaprop, with Mrs. Harcourt making a good run for second place.

Vernon Davidson, leading man with Fritz Scheff in "The Prima Donna," is making his first visit to America, and this year had his first ride on a pullman sleeping car. He was engaged by Mr. Dillingham in London, having created many of the leading parts with the English musical comedies.

The treasury department has discovered a loophole to enable the Metropolitan opera company to get around the law enacted duty on scenery and costumes taken out of the country and brought back. The bulk of the scenery and costumes in question had been bought aboard and duty already paid on its entry to the United States. The Metropolitan company, which had planned a spring opera season in Paris, felt the injustice of being compelled to pay duty a second time and received a decision in favor of its contention from Assistant Secretary Curtis.

Richard Strauss' comic opera, like "Salome," and "Elektra," will have its premiere at the Dresden Court opera.

"An amusing attempt to get a Scott-Dumas romance out of real life," that is the apt way in which George Bernard Shaw characterizes "The Prisoner of Zenda."

The past and present are well exemplified in "Superba," for the old-time pantomime is presented with all the modern stage appliances. There is an injunction about putting new wine in old bottles, but the idea does not apply to "Superba" for the age of one assists the youth of the other.

William K. Harcourt who plays the "heavy stuff" with Fritz Scheff in "The Prima Donna," is one of the best known leading men in the country. Harcourt does not have to sing a note in "The Prima Donna," a peculiar thing in a light opera. But then there are lots of people in light opera who don't sing.

Gerhart Hauptmann's celebrated play, "Lonely Lives," which was produced at the Hackett theatre, New York, on Sunday evening, April 10, will probably be sent on the road for a short spring tour. In the cast is Miss Stella Hammerstein, daughter of the impresario, Oscar Hammerstein.

Donizetti's "Daughter of the Regiment" has just celebrated the 70th anniversary of its first production in France. The opera was produced in 1842 in Berlin and has been sung there 253 times. Some of the most famous interpreters of Marie at the Royal opera house in Berlin have been Adelina Patti, Pauline Lucca and Mariella Sembrich. Donizetti's opera had its first great success in Germany and Italy before Paris appreciated its text and score.

Before leaving for Europe, Gustav Mahler said: "Strauss has told me that henceforth he will write only operas. He says that he is done with symphonic works." Operas are more profitable.

According to the dramatic critic of the Athenaeum, London has not seen so moving a performance of "Othello" since the days of Salvini as that being given by Signor Grassi, of the Sicilian players, now delighting English playgoers.

Mrs. Fiske plays the part of a child in Hauptmann's "Haele," and her slight girlish figure makes the illusion perfect, according to those who saw the production in New York recently.

Mayme Gerree with "Three Twins" was for two years previous to her appearance with this organization in Australia, where she was playing one of the important roles in the "Red Mill."

Mrs. Charlotte Eldridge, wife of William Eldridge, died on Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Seavey, in Rye aged 60 years.

AGAINST CO-EDUCATION

Cambridge, Mass., April 17.—"Women who study side by side with men are injuring themselves in the present and weakening their powers for the future, and the whole theory of co-education is doomed to fall of its own weight," says Dr. Charles Montroville Greene, Professor of Obstetrics and Clinical Gynecology in the Harvard Medical school.

"Boys and girls, after they have passed the kindergarten age, should be taught separately. There are very good reasons for this, and one of the most important is the bad effect on the nervous systems of both sexes by constant association in the school room during the adolescent period. The psycho-psychological facts cannot be disregarded if we are to study properly problem of co-education. Then, too, women take their studies more seriously than men, with the result that many break down and in after life settle into a state of unstable nervous equilibrium."

WHERE IS TOWN LINE?

Rockland, Me., April 18.—The town authorities of St. George and South Thomaston are unable to determine within half a mile the position of the border line that separates the two towns, and as a result there are many curious mixups.

It was supposed that both towns had records of the survey of the line, but when the question was raised a short time ago they could not be found.

One man, who has paid taxes and voted in St. George all his life, does not know now where his home and his property has been assessed by both towns. He has refused to pay either and is threatened with suit. Other lawsuits will probably grow out of the uncertainty, as there are hundreds of acres of land and many homesteads within the ground that is the cause of the dispute.

South Thomaston and St. George are five to ten miles southwest from here on the coast.

TAFTS DENY BUYING SUN

New York, April 18.—A report that Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati and Henry W. Taft of this city, members of the President, had acquired the interest held by the estate of W. M. Laffan in the New York Sun gained some strength yesterday.

Henry W. Taft said there was no foundation for the report, and it was denied also by friends of Charles P. Taft in Cincinnati and by those in authority in the Sun.

STEAMER CRASHED INTO ROCKS

Passengers Taken Off Without Loss of Life—Steamer May Be Saved.

Portsmouth, St. Mary's, Scilly Islands, April 18.—The steamship Minnehaha of the Atlantic transport line struck on the submerged rocks near Bishop Rock Monday morning. Her passengers were removed in safety. The vessel is badly damaged.

The Minnehaha, Capt. Layland, from New York for London, was feeling her way cautiously toward the English channel through a dense fog that obscured the light on Bishop Rock and led her to approach to near the dangerous coast of the Scilly Islands which lie 2 miles to the westward of Lands End. When the Minnehaha hit the rocks she tore a big hole amidships and by morning she had 23 feet of water in her foreholds.

The 64 passengers, rudely awakened, were considerably alarmed for a time, but were reassured by the officers and, so far as has been learned here, suffered no harm. Scarcely had the steamship climbed upon the rocks when urgent wireless messages were being sent to Lloyd's signal station at the Lizard, from which point they were passed on to Falmouth.

Signals of distress were also picked up on the islands, and in a short time fishermen's boats had put out to the wreck. These boats took off the passengers and landed them on Bryher, where they were made as comfortable as the resources of the little island permitted, pending the arrival of a steamship which was dispatched to take them to Penzance, on the Cornwall coast, whence they were taken by special train to London.

Capt. Layland and his crew stood by the vessel, which, at daylight, showed a slight list to port. As soon as the passengers were sent away the work of lightening the cargo was begun. The weather continued thick and rain fell, but the sea was fairly moderate. Two lifeboats stood by.

The livestock, which make up a large part of the cargo, was landed on Sampson Island. Shipments of wax and machinery, which filled holds 1 and 2, were jettisoned, as the vessel continued to make water. It was thought that the Minnehaha might be towed off the rocks at high water.

An early examination of the engines and boiler rooms appeared to show that the equipments were intact and that the damage to the vessel was limited to the forward holds.

The Minnehaha struck at almost the identical spot where her namesake, a sailing ship, was driven ashore some 27 years ago.

In the emergency the behavior of all on board the liner could not have been better. The lifeboats were swung out promptly at the first shock and then Capt. Layland, the officers and crew passed among the passengers, who had hurriedly rushed on deck in the clothing in which they had slept, quieting their fears and persuading them to return to their cabins and dress themselves warmly for the trip ashore. Late Monday a steamship sailed for Penzance with the passengers of the Minnehaha.

The officers had been unable to take observations for three days. The position of the steamer looked precarious, but the captain says that he is hopeful that it will be possible to lighten sufficiently that she may be got off the rocks today.

ANOTHER RAILROAD AVOIDS A STRIKE

New York, April 19.—There will be no strike of the employees of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad. This is official. President Garretson of the Order of Railway Conductors, reaching New York from Scranton issued an authoritative statement explaining why the contemplated strike was abandoned. He said:

"A strike which was to have included conductors, trainmen, yardmen, engineers and firemen of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad was ordered for 11.45, cent-ern time, last night, but a settlement was reached. The company granted the full demands of the men, with an agreement to accept the award of the arbitrators in the New York Central wage dispute."

The Lackawanna railroad issued this announcement.

"Subject to the concurrence of the arbitrators, a compromise understanding has been reached between the Lackawanna Railroad company and its conductors and trainmen, whereby the Lackawanna is to be represented in the New York Central arbitration and to be governed thereby."

General Superintendent T. R. Clarke of the Lackawanna company, informed W. G. Lee of the Trainmen that his company would abide by the award of the New York Central.

CROWDS RUSH TO SEE ROOSEVELT

Budapest, April 19.—Although Hungary is in the throes of an exciting general election the visit of Mr. Roosevelt fairly monopolizes public attention. The polyglot newspapers of Budapest have printed columns about his arrival, and extended editorials of welcome "home" appear in English.

The character of the crush at the railway station last night when the former President arrived, may be judged from the fact that the chief of police broke his leg and several other persons were hurt.

Monday big crowds cheered the visitor as, with Ambassador Hengemüller von Hengeryar, he left his hotel and got into an automobile to begin the day's program. Mr. Roosevelt first made a formal call at the royal palace where he left his card for Archduke Joseph. He then visited the House of Parliament.

Copenhagen, April 19.—The plans of Mr. Roosevelt have been so changed as to permit him to spend 30 hours at the Danish capital.

The Roosevelts will be the personal guests of King Frederick, at Christians VII. Palace.

Stockholm, April 19.—The Roosevelt party will be the guests of the regent at the Royal palace during their stay here. King Gustave is in southern France.

TO INVESTIGATE BIG COTTON DEAL

New York, April 19.—U. S. Atty. Gen. Wickert, having ordered an inquiry as to the terms and conditions of an agreement for the purchase and delivery of 150,000 bales of cotton, the special federal grand jury will today begin a secret investigation in a proceeding entitled the United States against Frank B. Hayne and William P. Brown, prominent cotton brokers of New Orleans, La.

Over a dozen brokers of this city have been cited to appear before the special grand jury to tell about the big cotton deal.

The subpoenas served on the cotton brokers demand the submission of all records, memoranda and an agreement dated Feb. 25 last by brokers Hayne and Brown and other parties.

The agreement, the subpoenas state, was for the purpose of 150,000 bales of cotton for delivery in New York during the months of March and July inclusive at certain prices and under certain conditions. The fixing of the prices and conditions, the government charges, was a violation of the Federal laws.

The publication of the reports threw the local cotton market into a state of great confusion and there was a severe break in prices. Close phservers found no indication of liquidation by the bull leaders themselves, but there was heavy selling by wire and commission houses, who were probably acting for smaller traders on the long side.

Many contracts broke from 14.83, the best price of the morning 10.14.44, making a decline of $1.50 a bale from the closing figures of last week, while later months sold from 15 to 23 points net lower.

Trading was extremely active and excited at times, but during the early afternoon the excitement was less intense and in view of the apparently confident attitude of the bull leaders who had seen May sell at 13.99 earlier in the month, there was a disposition to await the result of tomorrow's hearing before forming any definite opinion as to the outcome of the reported alleged deal. In view of the excitement of the near month position, general news attracted very little attention and aside from the operations in May and July, business was comparatively quiet.

Eugene Seales of Texas and James A. Patten of Chicago, are reported members of the bull pool which the government is investigating. Mr. Patten is said to have financed in a large measure the pool, but left the operating to others.

STATE SCHOOL MONEY

Cannot Be Awarded to School Districts Which Cross Town Lines

Tilton, April 18.—Judge William B. Fellows has presented an opinion to the union school district of Tilton in regard to the distribution of state school money for "average attendance" and for "teachers graduated from normal schools" under chapter 158, laws of 1909.

This is figured entirely, he says, from the "equalized valuation" of the towns whose "population by the last published federal census" is not more than 3500. The supreme court, he says, holds that no distribution can be made to districts comprising parts of two towns, for the obvious reasons that there is no federal census of such districts, and no estimate can be made of the "equalized valuation" of such districts. Judge Fellows says that the supreme board cannot be criticised for what they have done and said.

Where They Get Done.

"Among the gambler's stories that the late Pat Sheely used to tell in his art shop," said a New York reporter, "was one about a jack pot."

"A beautiful young lady, the story ran, entered a corner grocery one morning and said:

"Have you any jack pots, Mr. Sand?"

"No, ma'am," Sands answered, and he had a smile behind his ban. "I've not temps and confesots, but jack pot I don't stock."

"Oh, dear!" said the lady. A frown wrinkled her smooth, and beautiful brow. "I'm so sorry!" she said, Mr. Sands, my husband's mother used to talk to him, and nearly every night he talks to his sleep about a jack pot. So I thought I'd get one, for, since he's gone, he's often, he must be used to it. Could you tell me, Mr. Sand, what they look in jack pots?"

"Green, ma'am," was the quick answer.

Manhood.

"Oh, give us men! A lot like this demagogue, pure hearts, true faith and ready hands, who possess opinions and a will, who have desire for office cannot buy, who have honor, men who will not lie, all men, sun crowned men, who live above the fog, a public duty and in private thinking."

—Holmes.

His Luggage.

Johnnie Poe, one of the famous Princeton football family and incidentally a great-nephew of Edgar Allan Poe, was a general in the army of Honduras in one of its wars. Finally, when things began to look black with peace and the American general discovered that he had been paid, when translated into United States money was about 60 cents a day, he struck the coast. There he found a United States warship and asked for transportation home.

"Sure," the commander told him. "We'll be glad to have you. Come aboard whenever you like and bring your luggage."

"Thanks!" said Poe warmly. "I'll sure do that. I have only fifty-four pieces."

"What?" exclaimed the commander. "What do you think I'm running a freighter?"

"Oh, well, you wouldn't get excited about it," purred Poe. "My fifty-four pieces consist of one pair of socks and a pack of playing cards."—Everybody's.

A Whistler Story.

"Whistler," said an artist, "once undertook to get a fellow painter's work into the autumn salon. He succeeded, and the picture was hung."

"But the painter, going to see his masterpiece with Whistler on a rainy day, uttered a terrible oath when he beheld it."

"Good grace!" answered "You're exhibiting my picture upside down!"

"Hush!" said the painter. "The committee refused it the other way."

STRANGE SUICIDE IN BOSTON

Boston, April 19.—An unidentified man committed suicide early today in the lodging house at No. 374 Shawmut avenue, South End, by shooting himself in the head. The man has lived in the house for the past three months, but the police were unable to find anyone who was able to identify him.

Patrolman John DeLosh of the East Dedham street station, was walking along Shawmut avenue when he heard a pistol shot. Believing the shot to have come from one of the houses across the street, he rushed up the steps of No. 374 and rang the bell.

The door was opened by Harris Stander, another lodger, who had been awakened by the noise. Other lodgers came running out of their rooms and a search was immediately started to find where the shot came from.

One of the party said it came from one of the rooms in the upper part of the building and DeLosh, accompanied by Stander, made their way to the third floor.

They pushed open the door of a room on that floor, and lying on the bed, with a revolver grasped tightly in his right hand, was the body of the man whose identity as yet remains a mystery.

Dr. Madden was summoned, but he pronounced the man dead. The police started a search for someone who could identify him, but neither the landlady nor any of the lodgers were able to tell anything about him.

There was nothing to be found in his room which would aid in establishing his identity.

Medical Examiner Leary was notified and he will make a search of the man's clothing to see if something cannot be found that will tell who the suicide is and where he belongs.

According to other people living in the house the dead man has been out of work of late, and, as the days went by, grew despondent. This is what the police believe, was the cause of his suicide.

The dead man is described as being about thirty years old and of magnificent physique, standing six feet tall and weighing in the neighborhood of 180 pounds. He was smooth faced, of light complexion, and had blue eyes.

A Beautiful PIANO

The term Beautiful, as applied to a piano is understood by some to mean a handsome looking instrument. Our meaning of "beautiful piano" refers to the excellence of tone and durability as well. There are few pianos today that deserve the term "beautiful" in its fullest sense more than the

Emerson

This "old reliable" endures thro' years of hard usage, and retains its rich musical tone and delicacy of action. Any Emerson owner will tell you so. The Emerson Piano of today is the superior of its predecessors. It pays well to buy such a piano. A small cash payment and a still smaller monthly one secures an Emerson for you. We shall be pleased to show you the Emerson.
